delicious. DOES LUNCH AT LONGRAIN MELBOURNE

delicious. readers were among the first to dine at the new Longrain Melbourne at a leisurely Saturday lunch. Co-owner Sam Christie ran the floor as Martin Boetz and Adam D'Sylva (pictured top left with editor-in-chief Trudi Jenkins) turned out some of the signature dishes that have wowed Sydney for so many years. The menu included betel leaves with smoked trout, wagyu beef curry and coconut sorbet. Each course was matched to fantastic Scorpo wines chosen by vigneron Paul Scorpo. Lucky readers won prizes from Royal Doulton and Volvo, and charity donations went to The Royal Melbourne Hospital.
